

LAW SERVICES NEWS

WINTER 2024 NEWSLETTER OF NASSAU SUFFOLK LAW SERVICES

MESSAGE FROM THE EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR

Victoria A. Osk, Esq.

Nassau Suffolk Law Services (NSLS) continues to make effective strides by providing free legal services to low-income families across Long Island. Through the combined support of our dedicated staff and supporters, we are able to provide various cooperative programs catered to strengthen our ties to the community.

Our mission is to assist underprivileged families in combating issues involving healthcare, homelessness, consumer debt, disability, family affairs, and other eligible civil legal matters. NSLS encourages families to lead productive lives by ensuring that government benefits and emergency services are provided to those who are eligible.

As we continue to evolve our service areas, several units have been transformed. In light of pervasive homelessness on Long Island, the largest development could be seen within the expansion of our housing unit and the adjustments made in handling each case. With the support of New York State grants, we were able to successfully transition from a volunteer model to a staff model, allowing us to hire several new staff attorneys to match the rising demand for our services. Our vision is to establish NSLS as the go-to legal services resource on housing matters and to be present in courts daily. As our eligibility guidelines have expanded, we encourage all tenants to ask for us in court and be evaluated for services.

Our transformative efforts have also progressed within a unique sector of Legal Services called the Community Legal Help Project (CLHP). Both Nassau and Suffolk counties have added new locations and continue to collaborate with different organizations. Our Suffolk CLHP unit, for example, has welcomed two new locations (Patchogue-Medford Library and Half Hollow Hills Library) and partnered with CARECEN and Touro Law School to provide free legal information and referrals through brief consultations.

These developments couldn't have been possible without our dedicated staff, volunteers, partners, and donors. We would like to extend a huge thanks to our Governor and the New York State Legislature for funding our housing units as well as Assemblywoman Gina L. Sillitti, NY State Senator Monica R. Martinez, and NY State Senator Kevin Thomas for all efforts towards funding our Veterans' Rights Project.

In the magnificent tapestry of our success, each accomplishment is a vibrant thread woven with purpose. In our ongoing efforts to develop NSLS, we celebrate each endeavor with our annual Spring Gala. Together, we illuminate the path to a safe and just world. We hope to see you there!

DISABILITY BENEFITS SUCCESS STORIES

In a recent case, our Disability Advocacy Project (DAP) Staff Attorney Josephine DeLuca Ravindran assisted a disabled individual who had been denied Disabled Adult Child (DAC) benefits. DAC is a Social Security program for adult children whose benefit is built around the earnings record of the parent, not the disabled adult. This program helps individuals who have been under a continuous disability since before reaching the age of 22.

Our client, who had been receiving SSI, applied for DAC benefits under his parents' earnings record. Despite meeting the criteria, he was denied. In response, the client contacted our DAP unit which could take on the case. Attorney Ravindran agreed to represent the disabled adult at a Social Security hearing where all records and applications were reviewed and reassessed. The ultimate legal decision favored our client and all DAC benefits were rewarded. Through the efforts of DAP, the client became eligible for a higher amount of ongoing monthly benefits than he had previously been receiving under the SSI program. Great work, Josephine!

In order to be considered for Supplemental Security Income (SSI), an individual must meet certain income and resource criteria in addition to being disabled, blind, or aged 65 or older. In 2020, a claimant filed for SSI benefits and was denied due to excess resources (property). The claimant filed for reconsideration but was ineligible due to failing to provide the property deed without his name. Subsequently, the claimant filed a written request for a hearing, and in 2023 was represented by our Senior Citizen Law Project Staff Attorney Daniel Okrent.

In this case, the claimant had to prove that he had never been a shareholder or co-op owner of a residence in Brooklyn. At the hearing, the claimant testified that he had lived in Brooklyn, but never owned an apartment there. After searching through New York City property records, Attorney Okrent found that no UCC lien filing statements mentioned the claimant's name indicating that he was not the owner of the property. As a result of Dan's due diligence, the judge found that our claimant was eligible to receive SSI, qualifying him to receive benefits. Congrats, Dan!

SUFFOLK CIVIL UNIT SUCCESS STORIES

Client Secures New Home: A 73-year-old client applied and had been on a waiting list for Section 8 subsidized housing; however, the town Housing Authority denied the application and removed the client from the waiting list due to missing documents.

Suffolk Civil Unit Staff Attorney Courtney Spellman assisted the client in preparing a request for an informal hearing. Attorney Spellman also facilitated communications between the client and the Housing Authority. As a result of these efforts, the Housing Authority placed the client back on the waiting list. Within months, an apartment was identified as meeting the client's needs; however, the client faced further financial obstacles in obtaining funds for a security deposit, the first month's rent, and moving costs. Attorney Spellman reached out to various organizations and guided the client through the application process to request financial assistance. Following the application process, one resource determined that the client was eligible for funds for the security deposit and first month's rent, and another resource covered the moving costs.

The client has a diagnosis of mental illness and called frequently to express how the situation was overwhelming her. As such, Attorney Spellman relied heavily on assistance and guidance from Eva Jimenez in NSLS's Social Work Unit. "We are so fortunate to have the Social Work Department available to answer questions and provide advice. Interprofessional collaboration is invaluable in providing a holistic approach to serving our clients," said Attorney Spellman.

The client moved into her new apartment recently and expressed to Attorney Spellman, "I feel like you are an angel who was sent to help me." A Rental Subsidy Program Assistant from the town Housing Authority confirmed the importance of Nassau Suffolk Law Services' contributions to the process. He wrote: "If you had asked me 6 months ago if we ever would have gotten [the client] through the eligibility process, let alone moved in, I would have laughed at the concept. Your involvement made this happen. You were able to get things back on track and made a great go-between and teammate...So, simply I want you to know that this all only happened successfully because of your care and effort so thank you."

PUBLIC BENEFITS CASE SUCCESSES

Law Graduate Arefa Jawadwala of our Hempstead Public Benefits Unit recently helped a client avoid an eviction and money judgment by qualifying for a One-Shot Deal application with the Nassau County Department of Social Services ("DSS").

Ms. W is a bedridden mother who faces severe physical and mental health conditions. The household comprises Ms. W's daughter and extended family making them a family of seven. The family was housed in their home through participation in the Housing Choice Voucher Program ("Section 8").

The family was facing eviction due to defaulting on a stipulation that included a payment plan with their landlord. The consequences of default were that the family would be evicted, have a money judgment against them, and potentially be terminated from the Section 8 program.

A notice of eviction from the sheriff was issued to the family. In response, the family filed an Order to Show Cause (OSC) to stop the eviction but was unable to reach a new agreement with the landlord. The judge denied the OSC and ordered that no further OSCs could be filed and that the eviction could proceed. Time was of the essence for assistance with preventing an eviction.

First, the family turned to the Department of Social Services (DSS). Ms. W's daughter applied for a one-shot deal application with DSS due to her mother's inability to go to DSS in person. DSS denied the application because Ms. W's daughter was not the head of the household and could not submit the application on her mother's behalf.

Ms. W's daughter reached out to Nassau Suffolk Law Services and spoke with Ms. Jawadwala in our Hempstead office. After reviewing the DSS file and the relevant medical and financial information, Ms. Jawadwala submitted a reasonable accommodation request to DSS to allow an exception to their policy of requiring the applicant to be in person to process a one-shot deal application. The accommodation request included a complete application for emergency rental assistance.

Through advocacy with the DSS, they successfully presented Ms. W's information and circumstances, rendering her eligible for the assistance program. This enabled DSS to approve the family for a one-shot deal to bring Ms. W current on her rent, avoid eviction and a money judgment as well as preserve the Section 8 voucher. Congratulations, Arefa!

Advocacy Tip!

If a debt collector is contacting you by phone, request that they send you whatever they have in writing. It is important to never give personal information, like your social security number, over the phone. Once you receive the letter, you can do more investigation on whether or not you owe the debt alleged. One way of doing this is to request verification of the debt. The debt collector must verify the debt in writing. Whether you agree that you owe the debt or not, you can write what is called a "cease-dunning" letter to the debt collector. This essentially states that you wish for the debt collector to stop contacting you by phone or in writing. For sample verification and cease dunning letters, please visit our website by scanning the QR code.

The Public Benefits Unit provides legal assistance to persons who experience problems with public benefits programs that are administered by the local Departments of Social Services, including Welfare (TANF and Safety Net), Medicaid, Food Stamps (SNAP), Child Care Assistance, HEAP, Emergency shelter for the homeless, Unemployment insurance appeals and overpayments, and other emergency assistance programs. We also assist low-income households in establishing Supplemental Needs Trusts to eliminate the Medicaid spend-down and assist homeless families to obtain rent supplements from DSS to enable families to leave the shelters or retain permanent housing. MENTAL HEALTH LAW PROJECT SUCCESS STORIES

Leisa Rockelein, a Law Graduate in the Hempstead Mental Health Law Project, recently assisted a client in restoring their Housing Choice Voucher (Section 8) with CDLI (currently known as Community Development Long Island or CDLI).

Ms. L was a Section 8 voucher holder with the Nassau County Office of Housing (Nassau County). She was issued a voucher to find housing through Nassau County. Unfortunately, she was unable to locate housing within the voucher's allotted time frame due to her disabilities and surgeries. In late 2022, Ms. L applied for an extension of her voucher through a reasonable accommodation request, but she never heard back from Nassau County. Ms. L followed up and was told verbally her extension would be issued but she never heard anything else or received proof of an extension of the voucher.

After this conversation, Nassau County's Section 8 program was transferred to CDLI on December 1, 2022. Ms. L never received notice of the program's transfer. After months of not knowing the status of her voucher, Ms. L contacted Nassau Suffolk Law Services to see if we could assist her with getting any information on her voucher.

When Ms. Rockelein investigated the issue for Ms. L, she learned that Ms. L's address was incorrectly put in CDLI's system and that is why she was never informed of the transfer of her voucher. But CDLI had no proof that her voucher was extended and considered her voucher term to be closed.

Ms. Rockelein drafted a reasonable accommodation request to CDLI to reinstate the voucher due to Ms. L's disability and the circumstances surrounding her losing it. After a review, CDLI reinstated Ms. L's voucher and extended her voucher term to find housing. Ms. L was living in a single room with her pregnant daughter and was at risk of homelessness while undergoing medical treatment, but now she will have the opportunity to obtain stable and affordable housing. Great work, Leisa!

The more you know: The Section 8 Housing Assistance Payments program is a federal rent and mortgage subsidy program that assists eligible low-income or displaced families, senior citizens, and persons living with disabilities in obtaining housing nationwide. Families receive a rental subsidy, known as a housing assistance payment, or a mortgage subsidy toward payments to purchase a home, equal to the difference between their share of the rent, (based on their income) and the approved rent or mortgage for the unit. Eligible families and individuals are subject to statutory income limits.

Advocacy Tip!

Landlords may not refuse to rent to, renew the lease of, or otherwise discriminate against, any person or group of persons because of race, creed, color, national origin, sex, disability, age, AIDS or HIV status, alcoholism, marital status or familial status. Further, New York State landlords are prohibited from discriminating against tenants based on lawful source of income, which includes income from social security or any form of federal, state, or local public assistance including Section 8 vouchers (Executive Law § 296(5)).

Rashika Hettiarachchi met with me, listened to my "tale of woe," and...follow the steps she outlined for me. She was supportive, informative and, professional. I am grateful that the library provided her valuable service, which is definitely an asset to the community, considering the cost of legal advice."

RESOURCES FOR YOUR CLIENTS

Increase in Preventative Housing Subsidies

The Office of Children and Family Service recently updated Administrative Directive 20 OCFS-ADM-16-R1, to announce that effective January 1, 2024, preventative housing subsidies increased from $300 per month to $725 per month, to a maximum of $26,100 over three years.

This subsidy is an important support for parents or non-parent caregivers who have children, grandchildren, or nieces and nephews in foster care or threatened with foster care placement. Preventative housing subsidies can be used to prevent placement in foster care, to expedite a discharge from foster care, and can be used by parents or relative caregivers who need a bigger space (i.e. more bedrooms) or otherwise “lack adequate housing” to care for the child in foster care or at risk of entering foster care.

New Rental Supplement Program (RSP) To Assist Those Experiencing Homelessness

The Suffolk County Department of Social Services has created a new program to assist single individuals and families who are facing homelessness or currently staying in a shelter. The Rental Supplement Program (RSP) will provide rent supplements to those who are currently in a shelter regardless of their immigration status and temporary assistance status. Rent supplements for individuals start at $1,306 and may go up to $1,627. Families’ rent supplements start at $2,509 and may go up to $2,758. For more information and eligibility criteria, please visit our website or scan the QR code.

Free Tax Preparation for Low & Middle-Income Wage Earners

The Volunteer Income Tax Assistance (VITA) Program is a free service provided by the IRS that helps low and middle-income wage earners have their federal and State personal income taxes prepared and filed electronically free of charge.

Many wage earners may be eligible for the Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) as well as the Child Tax Credit (CTC). Those eligible for EITC and CTC have a no-cost option as they can have their returns prepared and filed at a VITA site.

Every county in the State has at least one VITA site. Visit the IRS VITA site locator using the QR code below. Opening and closing dates vary by site as well as hours and days of operation. In addition, many sites do require an appointment.

Heating Equipment Repair & Replacement Benefit

If your client is a homeowner and experiencing issues with their furnace and boiler, or their home’s primary heating source, they may be eligible to get the Home Equipment Repair and Replacement Benefit.

Benefit amounts are based on the actual cost incurred to repair or replace your furnace, boiler, and/or other essential heating equipment, $4,000 for a repair and $8,000 for a replacement. Your client can call their Local HEAP District Contact to apply. To find your Local District HEAP Contact scan the QR code.

The Legal Support Center for Advocates (LSCA) has a unique role at Law Services as a legal backup center for advocates from social service agencies, religious organizations, health care facilities, and other community-based agencies. LSCA’s Helpline provides phone support to community advocates so they may effectively assist their clients in welfare, housing, access to health care, disability issues, and other legal matters. This partnership with the community is especially valuable as it enables us to exponentially serve more clients than would be possible with our limited resources for direct legal services. When appropriate, LSCA facilitates internal referrals to one of Law Services’ many programs. Advocates can reach us at (631) 232-2400.

Thank you for your years of service, Rick!

Race Against Time To Help a Client in Need: An Advocate's Perspective

“Let me begin by saying: not all heroes wear capes. Sometimes, they wear suits, pumps, carry briefcases with special pens. A young mother with a minor child was admitted to our hospice program with a life-limiting diagnosis and a desperate wish to complete her last will and testament with guardianship needs. I reached out to Cathy Lucidi, Director of Community Relations in hopes of securing legal assistance for our young mom. Cathy swung into action and alerted her pro-bono department of our young mother's need. Six days later, I was in the home of mom with Carolyn McQuade, NSLS Pro-Bono coordinator, Sheryl Randazzo, Esq. ready and able to execute her will. I wish I could put into words how mom felt in her darkest hour as these amazing women were present to support her in her last wishes. It was powerful and emotional moment for the family and I. After the visit ended, mom said to me "my prayers were answered by angels." Sadly, 2 days later mom passed away. We like to think executing her will, and documenting her last wishes allowed her to transition peacefully. Some things in life are priceless and this is one of them. We can not thank you enough and are truly grateful for your support.

We are extremely grateful to all of our supporters who continued to be by NSLS' side during such a challenging time. We are Long Islanders assisting Long Islanders to ensure our communities are provided equal justice under the law.

We would like to gratefully acknowledge the special support from Bond, Schoeneck, & King PLLC, Esquire Bank, USI Insurance Services, PSEG LI, Salenger, Sack, Kimmel and Bavaro LLP, and Satty & Partners as well as all of our generous sponsors and donors. 2023 Commitment to Justice Reception

Speech from NSLS Client Ryan Hodgetts:

Growing up here on Long Island, I would idolize anything that was associated with the military. I would watch all the classic war movies and fantasize what their life was like, have my GI Joe dolls reenact scenes I would watch with my friends, and even wear fake dog tag chains from the mall. It got to the point that I was so internally committed to joining the Marine Corps that I would call the recruiter at 13, 14, and 15 only for them to consistently tell me I was too young and frankly overweight. Finally, when I turned 18 on July 3, 2008, I enlisted by the 28th and given my date I would be leaving for boot camp.

The story of my time in service really began after training when I entered what we call the fleet, which is the unit I was stationed in. We lived in barracks on base in Camp Lejeune and we were then first placed into rooms by alphabetical order. I had two roommates named Hopson and Hart, and after several weeks we really started to get along and became fast friends. Unfortunately on our first 3 day weekend off, Hart had gone home and tragically taken his own life. This was harder for me to deal with than I thought at the time, and the fact that everyone in my chain of command had seemingly moved on made dealing with it even harder. What followed this incident was my first Non-Judicial Punishment, or NJP, for underage drinking, in which I bought beer for my roommates to drink, and when a room inspection happened the next day, the empty beer cans were found with me to blame for paying someone to buy it. This gave me not only the punishment of what comes with an NJP, but animosity from everyone for being labeled a "snitch" in confessing who was involved.

Veterans Rights Project Client, during his time in the Marines

My deployment in Afghanistan consisted of standing guard on post 6 hours on and off for 7 months, with rest time including both vehicle and foot patrols into town, night and day. While on deployment, I had experienced several vehicle bound Improvised Explosive Device explosions, directly and indirectly at various times. This had a significant effect on my abilities to stand post, and soon after my first explosion, I had been caught sleeping on post twice and given an additional 2 NJP's. Along with seeing combat, there is also emotional trauma that's caused with losing some very close friends of mine, something I was aware could happen but not prepared for when it actually did. After returning home, aside from brief post deployment check ups, there was no real process for me to be able to cope with everything I had just been through.

While in front of the barracks in an argument with a friend I had deployed with, I was seen pushing him by his shoulders. This incident is what led to my 4th and final Non-Judicial Punishment, and would begin the process to separate me from service with an Other Than Honorable discharge. After getting out in 2012, I had moved on from my time in service. Honestly, I was scared and traumatized that even talking about it would be painful, let alone look for any benefits or any effort to get a discharge overturn because it would just go wrong and crush me even further. However, I was truly blessed to have someone in my life who cared about me, so much that it gave me the motivation to care again.

In 2017, my fiancé, Taisha Thomas...found Law Services, and their specialized unit, the Veterans' Rights Project. After...calling several places, it was Catherine Mendolia from Law Services who returned her call, letting us know she could help with my case. In that first meeting, I still remember after talking about everything that happened to me, I asked Catherine if I should just accept what was given originally and move on. But it was her reassurance that I have the opportunity to try and overturn it, that we're going to give the best effort to make my case, and that honestly there are other appeals to make in the worst-case scenario, so it's still not over regardless.

The months and weeks leading up to the hearing were incredibly nerve-racking. It was during this time that the meetings I had with Paola Arango, Catherine's supervisor, who truly put me at ease, making me the most...prepared for my hearing. I would sit in the offices in the Islandia office with both of them and talk for hours, discussing things I never was able to, and this made being able to explain my story in detail with a clear and confident tone a lot easier.

The hearing itself seems like a blur to me now. I tried my best to just stay calm, answer any questions, elaborate, and remain focused. What I can't forget is when one of the officers conducting the review towards the end of my hearing noted how well Paola knew my case and how it was clear they were dedicated to me by how quickly specific information was recited.

Waiting to hear back the decision...a time of tension for me. One thought that worried me was that because both Catherine and Paola had done such a thorough job in making my case, that there was never going to be a better shot than this review. It was just a couple months ago in March, when I had gotten that letter I've been waiting so long for. Nothing can describe what it was like to read those words, and I quote "The final decision is that the discharge shall change to HONORABLE". This meant that my Character Of Service was upgraded from Other Than Honorable, to a full Honorable status.

To be honest, it's something I'm still processing and taking in to this day. But it does feel like I can breath again, and like I'm myself again. Currently, I'm in the process of applying and figuring out all the benefits and entitlements I'm eligible for including V.A. Healthcare, disability, and educational. And even though that can be challenging in and of itself, I am so hopeful for everything to come.

LAW SERVICES PROFILE IN COMMITMENT

NSLS employees show their commitment to Law Services by "Doing What's Legally Possible to Create a Just World" every day but, for many, it doesn't stop there. Many staff members continue to show their commitment to helping others in their personal lives as well. We hope you enjoy this new feature in our newsletter as much as we enjoy sharing it.

Amanda Davis, Esq.

Amanda has been a Staff Attorney in the Independent Consumer Advocacy Network (ICAN) unit at Nassau Suffolk Law Services Committee since March 2016. The ICAN Unit assists clients who qualify for Medicaid community-based care and need nursing home-level care. The unit assists clients by providing information about the program, troubleshooting obstacles that they encounter, appealing denials of requests for new or additional services as well as appealing proposed changes to their services, and assisting with filing grievances with insurance plans or with the New York State Department of Health.

Amanda's clients have been at the highest risk during the Covid-19 pandemic. Their underlying conditions make them particularly vulnerable to serious illness from COVID-19, and their need for care exposes them to close contact with homecare providers who may also work with a number of other patients or in a variety of higher-risk settings. Other patients have struggled to find aides who were willing to continue to provide essential care during the public health crisis. Community-based care is also often an alternative to care in a congregate setting like a nursing home, where the death rate from COVID-19 has been high, particularly in New York.

During the Covid-19 pandemic, Amanda has worked with clients and their families to obtain discharges home from nursing homes. To make returning home a viable option, Amanda helps clients establish viable personal care or private-duty nursing services. Amanda has also worked with clients to obtain and maintain community-based care as an alternative to initial nursing home placement due to concerns about COVID-19. In addition, Amanda has worked with clients and their families to address issues related to COVID-19, such as issues with PPE, voluntary suspension of services to limit exposure to COVID-19, and aide shortages. She has also assisted patients recovering from Covid-19 to obtain community-based care upon discharge home from the hospital or nursing home.

Amanda earned her Bachelor of Arts in Political Sciences from the University of Tampa in 2008. She graduated from New York Law School in 2012 where she focused on public interest law and was an affiliate of the Justice Action Center. During law school, Amanda had the opportunity to intern with the Federal Equal Employment Opportunity Commission in NYC and with the NYC Department of Consumer Affairs. Amanda, who is visually impaired, has volunteered with the Helen Keller Services for the Blind "job and education re-entry program," helping counsel those with vision loss on successful interview techniques that help address their disability in the workplace.

2023 STAFF NEWS

— HAPPY — Retirement

Sheila Johnson, J.D., NSLS Director of Development and Government Affairs retired in early 2023 after 15 years of dedicated service. One of Sheila's roles included working closely with NSLS Advisory Council members to promote our agency and bring awareness to the work of NSLS. Sheila also formed the Government Affairs Committee within the council. She oversaw this specialized group as well as the council itself. In her Government Affairs role, Sheila worked closely with the Committee and led them in building relationships with local and state-level elected officials, to make certain the elected officials were aware of the free legal services NSLS provides so they may be better able to assist their constituents.

During the majority of her career at Law Services, Sheila was instrumental in planning many successful fundraisers, specifically our annual gala, The Commitment to Justice Reception. We wish Sheila a happy, healthy, and long retirement. She will be missed. NSLS held a Retirement Luncheon for Sheila at the Suffolk County Bar Association. Special thanks to Jane LaCova, the former SCBA Executive Director for welcoming us into the Grand Hall to hold this special retirement luncheon for Sheila.

Support Law Services and Our Mission

Civil legal services are essential to making sure our neighbors in need have access to justice in cases affecting their basic needs — shelter, food, education, and health care. Since 1966, our organization has helped many indigent and disabled Long Islanders navigate their toughest legal and financial challenges. This would not be possible if it weren't for the support from people like you. Be that change in the world you want to see by supporting Compassion and Justice for All and consider purchasing a sponsorship package, virtual journal ad, and/or tickets to our gala, so with your help, we can continue to "Do What's Legally Possible to Create a Just World." Your donation will support the critical civil legal services for Long Islanders in need. Please visit our website at www.nslawservices.org for more information about the services we provide. Thank you for making a difference in the lives of Long Island's most vulnerable residents.

Thank you,
